William Shultz seemed to be in a cheerful mood and fed the horses as his part of the duties about the place. Then he returned to the house, went to his bedroom, and a few minutes later the report of a gun was heard. The other brothers were still at the barn and the shot, at that distance sounded as though some heavy weight had fallen in the house. They hurried in to see what was wrong and soon found the lifeless body of their brother. Death was immediate. Mr. Shultz last fall purchased the old homestead and it is thought that finances concerning the deal had worried him until he determined to take his life. McKinney being assigned to York Springs. The Gettysburg and New Oxford congregations rejoice that Rev. R. S. Oyler has been returned here, where he has given in his first year the most successful year the church has ever had.

One of the honors of the Conference was the selection of Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs as Superintendent of the Williamsport District. Rev. Jacobs is well known here, being a graduate of Gettysburg College in class of 1882 and for several years served one of the churches of Hanover and having New Oxford as part of the charge at that time. Rev. Jacobs has steadily won prominence in the Methodist Church, having received votes on several occasions for the position of Bishop.

The Conference endorsed the stand of Governor Brumbaugh in his fight for local option.

Notable Speakers.

The Commencement exercises at Gettysburg College next June will be notable both because of new features that will add much interest and because of the speakers of national reputation who will participate. The Baccalaureate Sermon on Sunday, June 6th, will be preached by Shailer Mathews, D.D., LL.D., Dean of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago and President of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. On the evening of the same day Rev. John C. Goddard of Salisbury, Ct., will deliver the annual address to the members of the Young Men's Christian Association. The principal speakers on Commencement Day, June 6th, will be Talcott Williams, LL.D., LL.D., Dean of the Pulitzer School of Journalism of Columbia University, and John Henry MacCracken, Ph.D., LL.D., the newly elected President of Lafayette College.

The new College Bulletin of Gettysburg College for 1914-1915 shows an attendance of 418, an increase of 57 or nearly 10 per cent. over the enrollment of last year.

Last week a banquet was given in Hanover in honor of President Granville by the resident alumni of Gettysburg College. Twenty-seven covers were laid and after the toasts a Hanover-Gettysburg College Alumni Association was organized with Dr. John E. Meisenheider, '97, as President, and R. L. By a majority vote of over three-fourths of the students it was decided to inaugurate at Gettysburg College a complete honor system covering all examinations. Student government has been in successful operation for five years.

The historic collection in Gettysburg College Museum has just been increased by the addition of a Spanish missal dated 1774, of 160 pages, size 2x3 inches. It is the gift of Rev. G. H. Trabert, D.D., class of '69, now of Minneapolis, Minn. Much interest and value is added to this well worn little volume by the fact that it was found on the college campus three days after the Battle of Gettysburg in 1863 by the young lady who afterwards became the wife of the donor. She was at the time visiting the college buildings all of which were in use as military hospitals. The volume does not contain the owner's name but it probably belonged to a Confederate soldier.

Playing With Fire Destroys School.

Several boys played with fire near the Chestnut Hill School House in Union township, on Thursday afternoon of last week with the result of the burning to the ground of the school house. School was dismissed at the usual hour in the afternoon and, before going home, some of the boys loitered about the grounds playing. A burning stump nearby was their principal source of amusement and the boys started to throw about glowing pieces of wood. In an effort to see whether he could throw a brand higher in the air than any of his fellows, one of the youngsters happened to cast a piece of the wood in the belfry. It was believed that the force of the throw had extinguished the fire and no thought of any damage being caused entered the children's minds.

After a little more play they departed for their homes. They had scarcely arrived there when telephone calls announced that the building was ablaze. The flames soon spread from the blazing belfry to the wooden shingle roof and it was but a few minutes before that was burning fiercely. Efforts to extinguish it were useless in view of an inadequate fire fighting apparatus.

The residents of that section devoted their energies to removing the contents and in this they succeeded, completely, getting out practically everything—books and desks being taken to a place of safety while even the stove was removed before the blazing roof fell in.

The building was a one-story brick structure and was built about thirty years ago.

The teacher is Miss Roxie Brumgard.

"The Telephone Landed it"

"And I don't mind telling you that six months ago, before I learned how to get the real use out of my Bell Telephone, some other fellow would have dug up that fat, juicy order while I was fumbling with my calling card."

Stir around; telephone! "It's a cinch" when you know how,—and a call or two will show you.

Women's Liberty Bell.

Bonafide suffragists in blue overalls will play stellar parts at the "casting" of the Pennsylvania Women's Liberty Bell at Troy, N. Y., March 31.

Assurances to this effect have been received at the State headquarters of the suffragists at Harrisburg in a letter from W. K. Menely, vice-president of the Menely Bell Company, at whose foundry the bell will be cast. Writing to Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, president of the State association, Mr. Menely said:

"All of the workmen who will take part in the ceremonies are good suffragists and firm believers in 'votes for women.'"

"The suffragists in overalls will attend the melting of the copper and other metals which are to be used in the composition of the bell and will guide the giant ladle that is to carry the molten metal from the furnace to the mould. The suffragists in petticoats will stand on the sidelines and cheer."

Lest this division of labor seem unequal, it should be mentioned here that when the overalled suffragists complete the "casting," their work in connection with Women's Liberty Bell will be done. The women's portion, however, will only be startling, as they will have to chaperon the bell on a 2,000 mile tour of Pennsylvania for vote winning purposes.

A corps of speakers and several tons of literature will be loaded on the auto truck that is to carry the bell on its "Z"-shaped route across the State, from Erie county to Philadelphia. Using the bell, the massive clapper of which will remain chained until the women of this State are granted the vote, as a symbol of the women's plea for justice, the suffragists expect to attract big audiences all over the State. The arguments which they will advance in behalf of equal suffrage will be directed primarily to man's inherent sense of fair play. May fifteenth will probably be the date on which the bell trip will start.

Civilization's Peril.

America is closer to the heart of Europe than at any time since England's colonies became independent states. To the most isolated farmhouse it has been known for a half year that we are not remote from the portentous events beyond the sea: that the fate of our brothers over there, in some way which we do not well discern, involves us also. We are, whether we like it or not, full shareholders in the civilization which is imperiled. Our commerce and industry, our prosperity and well-being, our culture and religion, the foundations of our common humanity, and the ideals of our common aspirations, are all at stake.—Edward T. Devine in the Survey.

Kicks Chick: Breaks Leg.

A pugnacious Plymouth Rock rooster and a woman's attempt to kick have furnished a case for the doctor. The rooster belongs to W. E. Coughenour, a dairyman of Dunbar, Pa. It has been creating trouble by chasing children, and Mrs. Coughenour, who takes care of the family henery, made up her mind to give the vicious bird a lesson.

Going out to the flock to give the chickens their morning meal, she was attacked by the rooster. Mrs. Coughenour took careful aim, and delivered a powerful kick, intended to put the bird out of business. She missed, her foot struck a stone, she fell disabled, and a physician found her leg broken.

Why They Were "Bad Company."

A soldier, charged with being drunk and disorderly, mentioned, in extenuation of his offense, the fact that he had been compelled to travel up from camp in very bad company.

"What sort of company?" asked the magistrate.

"A lot of teetotalers!" was the startling response.

"Do you mean to say teetotalers are bad company?" thundered the magistrate. "I think they are the best company for such as you!"

"Beggin' your pardon, sor," answered the prisoner. "Ye're wrong, for I had a bottle of whisky and I had to drink it all meself."

Their Use.

"Why do you advocate blanket street-paving bills?"

"To cover the beds of the streets, of course."

The Prevailing Rates.

"That writer is expensive, but there's meat in everything he writes."

"Then, no wonder he comes so high."

Mad at Paint

25c a gallon for paint is about $2.50 on the average job, and lots of men waited last year for that; but they didn't reckon: they got mad: wouldn't pay it.

There are times to get mad and refuse to pay; but when one's property needs protecting is no time to get mad and not paint.

Besides, it costs more to get mad and wait than to paint.

Getting mad doesn't do any good to your property: paint does it good by keeping out water; no water no rot; no paint, some water and rot; and a little rot is more than enough to make a man liberal towards his painter and paint.

Paint costs not a cent. All the paint in the world, so long as it keeps out water, costs not a cent.

PRAISES PRESIDENT WILSON

SPEAKER CHAMP CLARK AT ST. PATRICK'S DAY BANQUET.

President Should be Supported Bearing Heaviest Burden Since Lincoln.

When the Democrats came into possession of the House, the Senate and the Presidency on the 4th day of March, 1913, after 16 years of entire exclusion from power, we had a colossal task ahead of us. Looking the whole world in the face, we can truthfully and without fear of successful contradiction assert that we have courageously, wisely and patriotically accomplished the major portion of that tremendous undertaking.

The Baltimore platform contained a multitude of promises. We have redeemed many of them. While neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, I make bold to predict that in the next two years we will redeem the remainder.

For more than half a century Republicans "pointed with pride," while the Democrats "viewed with alarm." Now all that is changed. Positions are reversed. The boot is on the other foot. At the present juncture Democrats are "pointing with pride," while our Republican friends are "viewing with alarm"—great alarm.

PROUD OF RECORD MADE.

We are proud of our record in the Sixty-third Congress. It was made by two years of unremitting toil, of intelligent action, of high endeavor, of patriotic achievement. The results of our work will bless and prosper our beloved country.

Of course there are those who carp and criticize and growl. Folks with a grouse, like the poor, we have with us always. They were foreordained and predestined to dwell in the cave of Adullam. These complainants divide themselves into two classes.

The first are those who with countenances sorrowful as that of the Knight de La Mancha, but with glee in their souls and hope in their hearts vociferate, purely for political effect, that the country is going to what the immortal Mantalini denominated, "The Demolition Bowwows." In their case the wish is father to the thought. Some of them would prefer that disaster should come to the business of the land, from the smallest business to the biggest business, rather than see the country prosper and the Democrats victorious all along the line in 1916. I do not believe that there are many such un-American residents in this country so favored by Almighty God. But the few malignants are unfortunately among the noisiest of mankind.

The second class, suffering from the malagnus, is much larger than the first, consisting of honest but timid persons with nerves who are forever seeing ghosts, who in fat years look forward fearfully to possible lean years and who are greatly worried by the lamentations of the cassandras and marplots afore-mentioned. These two classes keep up a howl that the country is going to the dogs and scare people out of their wits, thereby retarding progress.

SOME OF THE WORK DONE.

I will enter into no lengthy analysis or discussion of the numerous measures, great and small, of a beneficial nature which we enacted into law. The reasonable time permitted for an after-dinner speech would not be adequate.

The chief laws are the Tariff bill, the Reserve Board bill, the Trades Commission bill, the Seamen's bill, the 640-acre Homestead bill, the anti-Trust bill and the bill improving our consular service. Of course, there are others of importance, but these will suffice for the present speaking.

It is claimed by those who love us not that the Underwood Tariff bill would not have brought in revenue enough to run the Government, even if there had been no transatlantic war, and much ingenious arithmetical exercise has been resorted to to prove that contention, but it is not true. It would have brought in abundant revenue, but for the war, which so greatly reduced collections from customs duties. In my judgment it is the best tariff bill ever enacted. The income tax feature alone would make it the best. No matter what happens hereafter, no matter what political party wins, the income tax provision of the Underwood bill will never be repealed. It has come to stay, certain as grass grows or water runs. A party declaring for its repeal would not carry ten States in the Union.

The Reserve Board Bill appears to please everybody except the Adullamites aforesaid.

The Seaman's Bill should have been passed years and years ago and gladdens the heart of every man working on an American vessel.

The 640 Acres Homestead Act will help to people the arid lands of the West, creating in the heart of what was once denominated "The Great American Desert," thousands of happy and prosperous homes—which is a great desideratum.

It is confidently expected that the Trades Commission Bill and the Anti-Trust Bill will improve conditions very much.

The damage done to American business by the European-African-Asiatic war was well-nigh incalculable. For a time it approximated total paralysis. But we are gradually pulling out from under it in most branches of industry and trade.

Every sane and patriotic American without regard to political affiliations desires earnestly to see the country prosper. It is a thing incredible that any person worthy of citizenship wishes the contrary. And, God be praised! business is righting itself and prosperity is coming. It is in sight. The farmers, the manufacturers, the railroads, the miners are all taking on men instead of laying them off. And when those four industries prosper, all others must prosper.

It is the patriotic duty of every citizen to help along with the wave of prosperity. The happy state of affairs is where and when every person desiring to work finds employment at a fair wage.

To speed prosperity on its way, if you intend to buy anything this year, buy it now. If you are going to build anything this year, build it now.

WOULD BOOST PROSPERITY.

But the greatest accelerator of prosperity is in the hands of the newspapers. I am aware that it is hazardous to make them any suggestions. I also know that advice is the cheapest and most super-abundant commodity on earth. But I was once an editor in a small way myself, and here goes: "If, in addition to the immediate buying and building which I have suggested, all the newspapers in America would next Sunday morning announce in big headlines that business of every sort, everywhere in this broad land, is improving and that universal prosperity is rapidly approaching and in sight, by the 4th of next July every person in America who desires to labor would be working at remunerative rates and every laborer, together with his wife, children and other dependants, would be comfortable and happy. 'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished."

The Congress has done its work. Senators and Representatives have returned to their homes. The President remains in Washington because of the ticklish situation in which we find ourselves by reason of the transatlantic war and the civil war in Mexico. It is no exaggeration to say that he bears a heavier load than any President since Lincoln has borne. No man, no men, can relieve him of his burden, however much we would like to relieve him. His troubles, being purely executive in character, are his and his alone. In the very nature of things he knows more about what is going on abroad than does any other man in America, because he has better means of information.

Every good citizen without reference to politics or religion should trust him and uphold him in this crisis of our country's fate. May God give him the wisdom, courage and strength to keep us out of entanglements with foreign nations and lead us in the paths of peace.

Suffrage to Have Fair Play.

A brief statement to the general effect that now is the time to work rather than talk, was made at the State headquarters of the suffragists by Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, president of the State Association. The statement was issued in response to numerous requests for an outline of the campaign which the suffragists are planning to carry the women suffrage amendment to the Constitution at the polls on Election Day.

"On the 8th and 9th of April," Mrs. Roessing said, "our county and city chairmen will meet in special conference here. At this conference the campaign will be discussed in detail and definite plans made to reach every voter in the State. Until then there seems to be little excuse for statements of any sort beyond the declaration that we are confident of winning the same success at the polls as characterized our efforts in the Legislature. Every loyal suffragist in the State helped to win the Legislative victory and every one of them can be depended upon to make even more strenuous efforts in the behalf of suffrage at the polls."

Questioned as to what the suffrage leaders thought of the rumor that the Republican party organization would work against suffrage at the polls, Mrs. Roessing smiled and said:

"Up to the present time, none of the real leaders of the party have declared whether they will issue orders either for or against us. All of the talk to the effect that the power of 'the machine' is to be swung against us comes entirely from a few petty bosses in the smaller districts of the State. We are not alarmed over the rumors which they are floating, for two specific reasons:

"One is because we honestly believe that the real political leaders of this State are far too clever not to see the handwriting on the wall and fight a movement which is sweeping the entire country. The other is because we feel that even if a few little bosses should fight us, there are enough intelligent men in the State who would resent having the way they should vote dictated to them, especially on a question of fair play."

In conclusion Mrs. Roessing said: "I do not believe there is one man in a million who ever voluntarily does anything which might be construed as unportsmanlike. Consequently I cannot help but feel that the great majority of men who vote on the suffrage question this Fall will give the women the benefit of the same spirit of fair play in reaching their conclusions as governs them in their consideration of other important questions."

Claims Important Discoveries.

A Savannah, Ga., man has claimed to have discovered a chemical which when applied to growing cotton turns it jet black. He also claims to be able to grow roses of a pure velvet black and he believes his discovery will revolutionize the cultivation of plants generally.

Palmer National Committeeman.

"My present plan," said former Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer last week, is to take the oath of office as Judge of the Court of Claims about the 1st of June, and take my seat on the bench at the opening of the fall term in October."

"Does this mean that you will retire from all political activity?"

"While there is nothing to prevent my continuing I do not think it right for a Judge to engage actively in political affairs and I expect therefore to resign the place of National Committeeman before I take my seat. I shall, of course, retain my interest in politics and to the extent that I am able I shall continue to help our friends in Pennsylvania."

"My successor will be elected by the Democratic State Central Committee under rules fixed by the Denver convention in 1905, and I know the complexion of that committee so well that I am satisfied whoever may be elected, will be in entire sympathy with the present State organization and with the national Administration. If this were not so I doubt if I should be willing to retire from the position in which my party has placed me."

Stoop Shoulders.

Atlas bore the weight of the heavens upon his head and hands, according to a Greek myth, but those of mankind who carry the burden of life, too often let it rest upon their shoulders. Stoop shouldered men and women by the thousands are to be found among the followers of sedentary occupations. Nine out of ten when the subject is mentioned will square away their shoulders and say, "I'm getting a little careless about that." Then they make a momentary resolve that they will brace up and overcome the fault. That it is a fault and one that has a distinct bearing upon health there is no question.

No system of physical culture is complete which does not include exercises which teach erect carriage and deep breathing. One of these is impossible without the other. In this lies the chief ill effect of stoop shoulders.

To maintain good health we should use our lungs to their normal capacity at all times. The proper purification of the blood through oxygenation requires ample breathing. Drop your shoulders forward and try to take a full breath: see how impossible it is to do so in that position. Breathing with the shoulders forward and the breast bone depressed is only partially accomplished. The lower portion of the lungs cannot be emptied and instead of receiving a supply of fresh air they will be filled with residual air.

To work, sit or walk day after day with the shoulders hunched forward, means that the lung capacity is lessened just so much and a corresponding loss of vitality results.

Such a posture also permits the sagging of the diaphragm, a resulting displacement of the abdominal organs and leads to serious digestive disturbances.

Do not resort to shoulder braces or other mechanical means to correct stooping shoulders. These are but makeshifts which do not remedy the real trouble. Make the mental effort necessary to keep the body erect. By maintaining proper posture the muscles can be strengthened and made to do their work of holding the body upright.

When children exhibit a tendency to grow stoop shouldered parents and teachers should see to it that they are given physical exercises to correct the fault.—Little talks on Health and Hygiene by SAMUEL G. DIXON, M. D., LL. D., Commissioner of Health.

PENN'A. BUILDING AT FRISCO

DEDICATED LAST WEEK AND OPENED TO PUBLIC.Ex-Governor Makes Address Dedicating the State Building at the Big Exposition.

The Pennsylvania Building at the San Francisco Exposition is built of brick and is conveniently located. It represents the Colonial Architecture and the similarity to Independence Hall marks it as being typically Pennsylvania. There are rest rooms, writing tables, comfortable lounges in the hall. There is at one end an auditorium in which moving pictures of different State industries are to be shown. There is a vault for the liberty bell, which is expected to be taken there. In the building will be found the finest mural paintings on the grounds and probably in the West. They are far above anything to be seen there. One represents Penn's Treaty with the Indians. There on the right stands William Penn under the famous "Penn Treaty Tree" marking his well-known compact with the famous Indian Chief, Tamamond.

At the Dedication of the building last Thursday, ex-Governor Penner made the address of the occasion, among other things saying:

On the third day of July, in the year of nineteen hundred and twelve, it was my privilege to visit this great city of San Francisco in company with my fellow members on the Pennsylvania Panama-Pacific Exposition Commission. We came, representing the people of our Commonwealth under the law, to select within these fair grounds a suitable site upon which to erect a structure to be known as the Pennsylvania Building.

We promised you then that Pennsylvania would heartily co-operate in your great undertaking by representation here in a building and in exhibits that would be indicative of the standing of our Commonwealth among the other States, and commensurate with the dignity and importance of this exposition.

Those of us who journeyed here on that occasion have also well in mind, and in deepest gratitude recall, what was so generously done for our entertainment and comfort by the good people of this city, by President Moore and his committee and the members of the California Society. The memory of all that was given us then to enjoy will ever remain a most pleasant recollection.

We come today to finish the work then begun, and representing the people of Pennsylvania and the Honorable Martin G. Brumbaugh, the splendid Governor of our State, to dedicate this building, its equipment and control to the purposes of the San Francisco Panama-Pacific Universal Exposition.

There are many in this presence today who left their firesides in Pennsylvania to cast their fortunes with you of the Golden West, as well as native sons of Pennsylvania and her citizens by adoption, who for the present are sojourning here, and it is to such of you, more directly, that I now address myself.

The keystone in the arch of the original States—Pennsylvania—is admittedly rich in historic lore, rich in agriculture and manufacturing industries, rich in finance, statesmanship and patriotism, and test you of Pennsylvania and friends of Pennsylvania forget, let me recount some of the things which tend to justify the proud claim that our Commonwealth has done as much as any other State in the Union in the founding and development of this great nation.

It was in the city of Philadelphia in the year of 1776 the first Continental Congress met and where the Declaration of Independence was adopted. The Liberty Bell proclaimed our freedom to all the world from its belfry in the Statehouse in Philadelphia. The first observance of Fourth of July and the first capital of the United States were in Philadelphia. The first United States Mint was erected, and the first United States post office established, in Philadelphia.

It was in Philadelphia that the first printing press in America was operated, the first newspaper in America published and the first magazine issued. The first Bible published in America in English was printed in Philadelphia, and in the same city was established the first hospital in this country, the Pennsylvania Hospital. The first public library and the first medical school in America were established in Philadelphia.

The first steam manufactured in America, the first steel and silk made in America, were all produced in Pennsylvania. It was in Pennsylvania that the first steam locomotive was first discovered that the first steel rails were made in America, that the first steam plate and first steel cars in America were produced. The hammer's quadrant was invented by Thomas Goldrey, a Pennsylvanian; the first steamboat operated in America was run on the Delaware river by John Fitch, its inventor, and the first locomotive built in America was constructed in Philadelphia.

The world's first international exposition was held in Philadelphia, just one hundred years after the Declaration of Independence. The first Speaker of the National House of Representatives was Frederick A. Muhlenberg.

Among native Pennsylvanians famous in the world of art were William Rush, the first American sculptor; Edwin A. Abbey, the great painter of the nineteenth century, and living today are the sculptor George Gray Bernard, the acknowledged Michael Angelo of this generation, and Miss Violet Oakley, whose mural paintings enrich and dignify the State Capitol at Harrisburg and many other edifices throughout the United States.

Valley Forge and Fort Duquesne are in Pennsylvania as is also the battlefield of Gettysburg. Lancaster, the richest agricultural county in yield in all the world, is in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania levies no tax on real estate or personal property for State purposes. She is absolutely free of debt and has a substantial cash surplus in her treasury. Pennsylvania's tax laws are the best and her election laws the most progressive. Her population consisting as it does of eight million souls, constitutes a citizenship as loyal to flag and country and as God loving as can be found in all the universe.

Such is a brief and partial review of her achievements and sacred possessions. And I admonish every loyal son of Pennsylvania to defend and safeguard her glorious record.

Of special pride and interest must it be to you of California to know that John W. Geary was in January, 1849, appointed postmaster of San Francisco by President James K. Polk, and on August 1st of the same year elected your first alcalde, and chosen the first mayor of your city May 1st, 1850. Geary was later Governor of Pennsylvania and major general in the armies of the North during the Civil War, and it was he who fought the "Battle above the Clouds" on Lookout Mountain.

It must also interest you to know that John Bixler, a brother of Governor William Bixler, of Pennsylvania, was the Chief Executive of your State from 1852 to 1858; that James Lick was born in Fredericksburg, Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, August 25, 1786, and died in San Francisco October 1st, 1876. In 1874 he gave large sums of money to public institutions here and, among others, for the erection of the most powerful telescope in the world and now in use in connection with the astronomical observatory of the University of California.

When the Civil War broke out in 1861 there were no railroads across the continent and no means of communication with California save by overland trains or by vessels around Cape Horn. At this time the Honorable E. D. Baker, who had long lived in San Francisco, was United States Senator from Oregon. Inspired with a spirit of patriotism and animated by State pride, he organized in Philadelphia the first California regiments. In a speech to his command as it was departing for the front, he said:

"And if from the far Pacific a voice feeble than the feeblest murmur on its shores may be heard to give you courage and hope in the contest, that voice is yours today."

These California regiments so formed later constituted the Philadelphia Brigade, and it was this brave force which in the Bloody Angle at Gettysburg withstood the furious charge of Pickett's men.

Therefore with these recorded facts set down and many others in mind, of the accomplishments and honorable life work of California's sons in Pennsylvania, and the achievements of Pennsylvanians in your State, can it not truthfully be said that we are bound each to the other by ties of patriotism, of friendship and good will, stronger than links of steel and as enduring as your everlasting hills.

When the complimentary call came from San Francisco for our Commonwealth to demonstrate to the civilized world what she has accomplished in preventive medicine, and her methods to overcome tuberculosis and to build up a stronger race of mankind by proper school hygiene, and combat typhoid fever, we lost no time in accepting the invitation. Pennsylvania's State exhibit will give a materialistic demonstration so as to make an actual impression upon the lay people, that each visitor may go away with a graphic impression of what can be done to improve health conditions upon which all industries and happiness of mankind largely depend. It is not my intention to enlarge upon health matters, but to express our appreciation for the invitation and to leave our exhibit of hygiene to speak for itself.

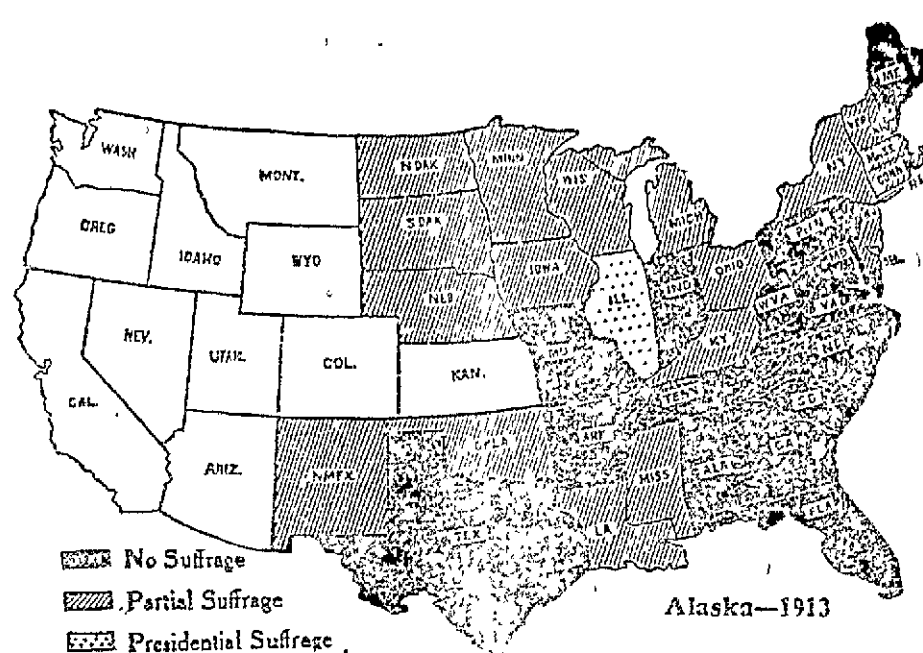

This building which we dedicate to-day stands as a monument to the genius of the architect who planned it, to the builders who fashioned it, and to the artists who enriched it.

From the time of the Centennial Celebration in 1876, when the first world's exposition was held, until this year, large cities throughout the United States and other nations have vied with each other in attempts to excel all that had gone before in the conception and magnitude of their respective undertakings. It remained, however, for San Francisco and that exclusive and constructive genius, your president, Charles C. Moore, surrounded and aided by an efficient staff, to arouse public sentiment to a determination to make this exposition, and the event it celebrates, the greatest in point of interest to all peoples the world has ever known.

Our imaginations were staggered when we of the East learned that, notwithstanding the terrible European war, then and now in progress, the hesitancy on the part of many to send exhibits, due to unsettled business and political conditions, that the gates of this great fair ground were opened.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE
GOES TO VOTERS

By Vote of 37 to 11. Senate
Places the Issue Squarely
Before the People

WILL BE DECIDED NOV. 2

State President of the Suffragists
Confident of Victory

Harrisburg, Pa., March 17.—The question as to whether the women of Pennsylvania shall have the right to vote is no longer a legislative issue. By endorsing the resolution calling for an amendment to the State Constitution, the Senate has placed the matter squarely before the men of Pennsylvania. Their vote on Election day this year will decide whether or not the two year campaign of the Keystone suffragists has been in vain.

At suffrage headquarters here today Mrs. Frank M. Roessing expressed the opinion that the legislative victory of the women would be repeated at the polls. This opinion, she said, was based upon the fact that the vote in the Senate—37 ayes and only 11 noes—tends to indicate that not only public sentiment but political sentiment, as well, has changed in favor of the women. Two years ago, the suffrage resolution received a majority of only one vote in the Senate, and then only after a nerve-racking fight in which the lieutenant governor, for the first time in years, was compelled to vote in order to break a deadlock.

Further indications that political sentiment is swinging in favor of equal suffrage was evinced in the Legislature this year when party leaders, Vare and Crow, personally led the fight for the women and publicly urged their fellow Senators to redeem their party pledges and vote for the amendment. Senator Martin of Cumberland, and Senator Hilton of McKean, also spoke in favor of it. Only Beidleman, of Dauphin County, and Thompson, of Beaver, opposed its passage. The final vote stood as follows:

Ayes—Clark, Croft, Crow, Daix, Endsley, Farley, Graff, Grger, Hilton, Hindman, Hoke, Homsher, Jenkins, Kurtz, Lynch, Charles J. Magee, Martin, McConnell, McKee, Miller, Moore, Patton, Phipps, Salus, Schantz, Semmens, Sensenich, Raymond E. Smith, William W. Smith, Charles A. Snyder, Plymouth W. IF Equal suffrage is a bad thing, why has it spread from State to State, and first adopted in California, to ten neighboring States, and joining one another?

COMING THRO' THE RYE.

(Suffrage Version)
If a lassie wants the ballot
To help to run the town,
And a lassie gets the ballot
Need a laddie frown?
Nay, a laddie has the ballot
Not so bright as I,
And many a laddie votes the ballot
Overcome with tre.

If a lassie works for wages,
Toiling all the day,
And her work the laddie's clothes,
Give her equal pay.
If a body pays the taxes,
Surely he'll care
That a body earns the franchise,
Will he or she.

PARTY LEADERS
BOOST SUFFRAGE

Senators Vare and Crow Speak in Favor of the Amendment.
Eideman Opposed

Harrisburg, March 17.—Party leaders Vare and Crow, and Senators Martin and Hilton are still busy receiving the thanks of the suffragists for their speeches in favor of the suffrage amendment when it came to a vote in the Senate last Monday night. Mr. Vare's speech was brief and to the point.

"I want to see this suffrage amendment go before the people," he said. "It won't cost anything. What's more, the women are entitled to it after the grand fight they've put up for their bill."

Senator Crow delivered a longer speech. "Two years ago," he said, "I fought the adoption of this resolution with all the forces at my command. The resolution, nevertheless, received a constitutional majority. Later it became a question as to whether or not it should be a pledge of the party in the Republican Platform of last year. After due deliberation and consideration the party was committed to the adoption of this resolution of submitting the question of woman suffrage to a referendum vote of the State. Upon that platform the State candidates were elected and practically all of the Legislative candidates.

"Speaking for the Republican State committee and the Republican State organization, I feel it my duty to say that we feel that there is as much obligation resting on the party to pass this resolution as to carry any other in the platform, and we can only express the wish that the Republican members of the Senate will recognize that obligation by voting for this resolution."

Senator Hilton said: "Equal Suffrage has been an issue in a great many States beside Pennsylvania, and Congress has voted upon this question and at that time one of the strongest arguments against it and possibly the argument which defeated the measure, was the statement that it was a State issue. We cannot place that argument against this bill, for the simple reason that it is a State issue. Two years ago this resolution was passed through the Senate and a few months after it was included in the Washington Party platform, the Democratic Platform and the Progressive Platform. I believe any constitutional amendment that is taken up by the different parties this way should not be defeated by any legislative body but should be passed on for the consideration of the voters."

Senator Martin, of McKean County, said: "I feel that we have no right to hold this bill from the people. Let them decide the question. It is their right to do it and my vote will be 'aye.' The action of the Senate in passing the bill makes Pennsylvania the fourth big State in the East that will vote on a suffrage amendment at the polls this year. The three other Campaign States are New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts."

DO YOU KNOW
That the Senate's approval of the suffrage resolution makes woman suffrage the big live issue of the year in Pennsylvania?
The question of equal suffrage for the women of this State will now be decided at the polls on Election Day.

First Rural Association.

Hamilton township has the distinction of having organized the first rural "Parent-Teachers' Association." Hamilton has always been one of the most progressive districts in the county along educational lines and maintains its record with this new movement. The association was formed at Pine Run School House on Tuesday evening and the school house was crowded with Hamilton citizens. A large orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and there were excellent solos and recitations. Prof. H. Milton Roth gave a talk on "Paving the Way" toward a co-operative association. Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean on "Aims and Purposes of the Parent-Teachers' Association," and Wm. Arch. McClean on the "Benefits of a Parent-Teachers' Association."

After an open conference on the subject of forming an association a motion prevailed to organize a Parent-Teachers' Association and following officers were elected: President, Harry F. Stambaugh; Vice President, Clayton B. Yohe; Secretary, Miss Esther M. Myers; Treasurer, Martin L. Slothour. A number of the citizens became members at once and another meeting was arranged for April 6, when a membership will be worked up and constitution and by-laws adopted.

Rural Carrier Eligibles.

The Post Office Department at Washington has a list of rural carrier eligibles numbering 21, of which 11 are residents of Gettysburg. The eligibles include all who passed the last examination taken. There is but one vacancy at present to be filled, at Virginia Mills, and there is but one eligible residing at that point. The following is the complete list:

Earl B. Biessecker, 9066, Orrtanna (1); Lester E. Bowers, 9000, Gettysburg (1); Russell M. Spangler, 8870, Fairfield (1); Howard Biessecker, 8830, Orrtanna (2); Calvin A. C. Cluck, 8790, McKnightstown (1); Clarence J. Snyder, 8700, Gettysburg (2); Ralph L. Doble, 8700, Fairfield (2); Russell S. Shoemaker, 8450, Gettysburg (3); Oscar Howe, 8350, York Springs (1); Worth E. Kissinger, 8165, Gettysburg (4); Bernard A. Wagaman, 8140, Gettysburg (5); Addison S. Horner, 8130, Gettysburg (6); Frank M. Patterson, 8025, Gettysburg (7); Charles T. Jacobs, 7880, Gettysburg (8); John Z. Rudisill, 7730, Littlestown (1); Ernest H. Trostle, 7585, Biglerville (1); Luther B. Slaybaugh, 7465, Gettysburg (9); Stanley R. Sheffer, 7450, Virginia Mills (1); James E. Kissinger, 7435, Gettysburg (10); Harvey Herring, 7240, Iron Springs (1); Charles W. Troxel, 7075, Gettysburg (11).

Judge Swope Not a Candidate.

By way of the Philadelphia "North American" last Sunday came the following announcement on the local judicial situation. As the "North American" has been the mouthpiece of the Progressive Party, which Judge Swope has been supporting, the announcement would seem to have an official significance.

"Judge Samuel McC. Swope, president judge of the fifty-first judicial district, comprising the counties of Adams and Fulton, will not be a candidate to succeed himself at this fall's election. Judge Swope himself is authority for this statement; but as yet this determination on the part of the judge is not generally known among the voters.

"Judge Swope will have served twenty-one years when his term expires next January, he having been given an extra year by the change in the constitution several years ago. He says he has had enough, and that the voters of the district somehow feel that one man should not hold office too long.

"Whether the agitation for no-license has had anything to do with the decision of the judge is not stated. It is said that Judge Swope does not take unkindly to the suggestion that his son, Donald Swope, would make a worthy successor to his distinguished father.

"Former State Senator Donald P. McPherson is talked of in connection with a nomination."

Memorial Day Plans.

The committee of Corporal Skelly Post No. 9, Grand Army of the Republic in charge of the plans for Memorial Day 1915, have been in communication with a man of national prominence for some time and expect to be able to make definite announcement at a very early date. Monday, May 31st will be the day observed with the usual public ceremonies. The railroads give assurance of the usual number of excursions from Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia.

Re-married.

J. E. Davidson and Miss Edna Sprinkle, both of Fairfield went to Hagerstown this week and were re-married by Rev. Dr. R. S. Owen. This step was taken because of having received word from the West where first marriage was performed about a year ago, that the party was not legally qualified to perform ceremony.

Imagination balks at the magnitude of $2,000,000. Only when it is translated into terms of purchasing power does it become comprehensible.

Two million dollars, for example, will support more than 2000 families of moderate income for a year.

Two million dollars will buy more than 200,000 barrels of flour, more than 50,000 sewing machines or 80,000 suits. It will give work for an entire year to 2000 men and women engaged in various productive industries and other occupations that add to the common welfare of the people in all walks of life.

It is $2,000,000 a year that the Full Crew—"excess man crew"—Laws compel the railroads of your States to pay in unearned wages. Laws deprive you of improvements for safety and comfort in travel that this money, now used unproductively, would provide.

How much longer in these times when economy is a universal necessity are you willing to endure this tremendous waste? In the end the cost bears upon you, either in increased rates or decreased service.

Will you use your influence in urging that the people's elected Representatives at Trenton and Harrisburg work and vote for repeal of the Full Crew Laws and place control of the proper manning of trains in the hands of the Public Service Commissioners?

LESSER INDIAN DEATH RATE

Statistics Seem to Show That the Race Is Beginning to Build Up Again.

The physical decline and the alarming death rate of the American Indian of today is perhaps the most serious and urgent of the many problems that confront him at the present time. The death rate is stated by government officials at about thirty per thousand of the population—double the average rate among white Americans. From the same source we learn that about seventy thousand in the United States are suffering from trachoma, a serious and contagious eye disease, and probably thirty thousand have tuberculosis in some form. The death rate from tuberculosis is almost three times that among the whites. These are grave facts and cause deep anxiety to the intelligent Indian and to the friends of the race. Some hold pessimistic views looking to its early extinction; but these are not warranted by the outlook, for, in spite of the conditions named, the last three censuses show a slight but continuous increase in the total number of Indians. Nor is this increase among mixed-bloods alone; the full-blooded Indians are also increasing in numbers. This indicates that the race has reached and passed the lowest point of its decline, and is beginning slowly but surely to recuperate.

ADDITION TO WAR'S HORRORS

American Claims to Have Invented a Shell Capable of Scattering Molten Steel.

A new type of projectile which would scatter a white-hot mixture of molten steel over the object of attack and at the same time permeate the atmosphere with a deadly gas, which would make it impossible for fire fighters to approach, has been invented by John Hays Hammond, Jr., according to a statement made by him. This new missile, he says, may soon appear in the European war. The missile is designed for use in siege guns, as an aid in destroying towns and dirigible balloons. Mr. Hammond explained that the projectile carried an aluminothermic mixture which, five seconds after the projectile was discharged, would turn the steel inside to a white-hot mixture at a temperature of 5,400 degrees Fahrenheit. When the projectile hits the target, the inventor said, it explodes, its white-hot contents setting fire to whatever inflammable material it strikes. To avoid the possibility of quenching the flames, Mr. Hammond said he had equipped the projectile with a chamber filled with hydrocyanic acid, the fumes of which are deadly.

The inventor is a son of the famous engineer, John Hays Hammond. He invented wireless control of submarine torpedoes.

Although the hospital was already in the center of the sphere of the enemy's fire, Ms. Korkeenh boldly came outside, procured a number of horses, harnessed them, found several vehicles, and with the aid of the slightly wounded men, lifted the patients into the vehicles and drove them away to a place of safety.

THE REMITTANCE MAN

A Story of a Partnership.

By IZOLA FORRESTER

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

Crittenden stepped out of the post-office at Goldspur, with his usual monthly letter from London town in his pocket.

In front of the store was Mollie Owen, mounted on her brown pony. The sight was enough to make any man pause, but there was more than her beauty and grace to check the Englishman, for a moment later she began to cry.

Beside her stood Lin Dewing, a grin on his face and cheerful contentment fairly emanating from his personality. From a lounge at the door of the post-office Crittenden caught a remark that sent the blood faster through his heart.

"Lin's got her dead to rights. She can't meet the payments on the Upper Bend outfit, and he won't give her time. No fool woman can run the ranch, no matter how good looking she is. It needs a man!"

Nobody will ever know whether the spark of British chivalry collided with an instantaneous appreciation of Mollie's points or whether it was purely subconscious action regulated by fate's decree, sex attraction and opportune proximity. Suffice it to say that some irresistible current turned Crittenden's footsteps in the direction of the brown pony and Mollie.

"I understand, Miss Owen," he began, with the delightful drawl that gave Goldspur gooseflesh, "that you need a foreman over at your place."

Mollie met his eyes and stopped crying. She liked his eyes. There was a glint of humor in them, and they were a relief after the little black slits that furnished Lin's soul with loopholes.

"I'll take you if you want to try it," she flashed back. "What's your name?"

"John Crittenden."

Mollie felt a slight thrill of disturbance. She had heard of John Crittenden. Everybody around Goldspur had. Rumor said he was a "remitance man" and rode in every month for the purpose of receiving a certain letter from London.

She said to Dewing: "I've got thirty days, haven't I, Mr. Dewing, if I can raise the balance? The interest is paid up to the 10th."

"Yeah, you sure have," responded Lin happily. "And I hope you can raise it. If you can't, I guess I'll have to take the place off your hands."

Mollie smiled and tightened the reins. "All right. I'll be here on the 10th, then. You'll come over tomorrow, Mr. Crittenden?"

Next morning while the early mist still curled like low campfire smoke up the hillsides he rode to Upper Bend. Mollie was out feeding her chickens when he arrived.

"I've got three other men working here, but they aren't a bit of good," she told him. "Two look after the sheep, and one stays around handy to help me here at the ranch. The place is all run down. It needs a man's hand and point of view. I hope you'll get down to business and work a straight deal with me."

"I will," said Crittenden. "That's what I came for."

But he did not tell her how strange it seemed, this bucking into harness after nearly two years of inertia. He himself hardly sensed the keen, buoyant spur of responsibility.

One day Mollie stopped him as she was riding.

"Things are picking up, John," she called him John quite naturally now. "I think we'll pull through. There's $500 to pay by the 10th. I've got some saved toward it, and I heard today those new folks down the valley want to buy sheep. We could let a bunch go, couldn't we?"

"Would you mind taking in a partner here, Miss Owen?" asked Crittenden slowly. "I like it, and I think I could make a good thing out of it. I can put in my share, and that would pay off Dewing and give us a start."

The color rose in Mollie's face. She did not meet his eyes. It was not an easy thing she had to tell him, but she went ahead bravely.

"John, I want to be frank with you. I like you. You know that, don't you?"

"No, I didn't," said Crittenden, and the look in his eyes was so frank and so honest that she lost her courage.

"You're a pretty fellow," she added firmly. "But would you still? I've heard all about you of course."

"What have you heard?"

"That you are a remittance man."

Then Crittenden told her simply, without any show of embarrassment or excuse for the past. He had made a failure of life at home. He was no criminal, but he had been a spend-thrift and general misdoer.

He had come to the west to try to find himself, to learn his bent in life, to see whether there was a groove that he fitted.

"I think I've found it here," he finished. "This suits me. The money I told you of is my own. I am not paid to stay away, as the men say. I have a small, a very small, income, but it keeps me going. The trouble has been that I ran into debt at home. Out-here the outlook is wide. I will make a good partner, Miss Owen."

"Would you promise to be as faithful as you have been the past three weeks?"

"I'll promise anything if you'll let me stay," he retorted, with sudden reckless dash, and Mollie at once discontinued the personal circuit.

She took him at his word. Dewing was bought out the following week, and Crittenden became partner at the Upper Bend. Facially a new basis of friendship had been established between the two, however. He rarely came to the home ranch, but spent his time at the sheep camp. Mollie did not mind—not so very much.

One morning he rode back with a brown and yellow poney in the button-hole of his gray flannel shirt. The dusky petals reminded him of Mollie's eyes.

That evening Mollie went out in the moonlight and looked longingly up the valley toward the sheep camp, four miles away on the mountain side. She caught a glimpse of the possible future and had to find another brown and yellow poney, warning to her finger tips at her own thoughts.

Instead, she found Crittenden's latest letter from London, carefully folded as it had fallen from his pocket.

She set down on the low stool, chin on palm, weighing her love's worth. In the clear moonlight Lin Dewing found her there. Mollie barely listened while he explained how he had ridden fifteen miles out of his way to see her.

"It's on account of this here Crittenden you've taken in as partner, Mollie," he told her. "You've turned the whole thing over to him and he's made a mess of it. The boys won't stand for him any more. They're riding to night to clear him out of the valley, and Gold-pur!"

"What are you talking about, Lin Dewing?" gasped Mollie hotly, crushing the letter in her hand. "You know he's never done a thing that was crooked."

"He don't know the same nor the rules of sheep grazing. He's trespassed on cattle land. The boys will make him see right!"

"It isn't them—it's you, Lin Dewing."

Mollie caught up a lantern and started on a run for the corral. After her went Lin, his horse following leisurely. Neither spoke. He knew what she meant to do. As she seized the bridle and saddle from their hooks he caught her arm.

"Don't be a fool, kid! You can't stop them now. What do you want with him anyhow? I only pushed you hard on the payments because I wanted you to have to ask me for help."

"Heaven help anybody who had to ask you for help! You let me go!"

"I won't. Tell you all you want to!"

Mollie tore her wrist from his grasp and whistled. Lin swung around at the answering bark, but the big white hounds were on him, and he went down like a worried fox.

"Watch him, Scruggs!" Mollie called. "Easy, Monk. Just watch him! Don't let him get away!"

The pony was on its way before her right foot had caught the stirrup, and she bent low, laughing recklessly, every nerve on fire at the thought of what lay ahead. She knew Lin Dewing and his crowd of men. They would clean out the sheep camp without a quail unless she could reach it in time to warn Crittenden and the herders.

So it happened that when the raiders rode over the rim of the foothill and looked down at the sheep, close huddled in the moonlight, they met a surprise. Mollie had begged for a revolver.

"It's half my property and half my fight," she told Crittenden. "I want to help."

He gave her one. There was barely time to get the saddle off her steaming pony and sling a blanket across his back before Dewing's men came, but even in those precious moments he had managed to make her understand what her coming meant to him.

But the fight was his own. Brief as it was a keener sense of enjoyment swept over him than he had known in years. He was fighting for more than Mollie's rights—for his own new hopes and ambitions.

When it was over he sent the herders to look after the three silent figures that lay on the moonlight splashed hillside and turned to Mollie. She saw his eyes and the great longing in them, and handed him the letter from her home.

"I found it by the poney bed, John," she told him with her old directness. "I didn't read it, but it bothered me. I thought that when we went into partnership you started off this sort of thing."

"I found it by the poney bed, John," she told him with her old directness. "I didn't read it, but it bothered me. I thought that when we went into partnership you started off this sort of thing."

"To save the sheep," corrected Mollie, looking at her. "I must not leave. Lin may be allowed to mine claim if he tries to get away from the dogs."

"I'm going with you," said Crittenden.

She turned at that, one hand on the pony's back, her lips parted.

"But why?"

"Why?" He reached for her and gently. "Because I have the right to mean to have from tonight! Your eyes were the spot that started me on the new road, Mollie. I've been trying to keep the trail since. That letter was only in answer to one of mine ordering the disposal of the property that brought me in the little income I told you of. I'm not going back any more, and I don't want any ties to hold me. Thank God, I can stand alone now!"

Mollie's lashes brushed his cheek. "Not all alone, John!" she whispered.

JUDGMENT ON LEGAL POINTS

Recent Decisions Handed Down That Are of More or Less General Importance.

The right of a person injured in a swinging door to recover for the negligence of another customer against the proprietor of a store has just been passed on by the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts in Smith vs. Johnson. The court held that where plaintiff, in entering defendants' store through a swinging door, put out her hand to guard her face from the door, which was swinging in her direction, and it was crushed between the door and the jamb, defendants were not liable, such door being in good condition and similar to those generally used, and there being no such crowd as would require the keeping of a door-man.

A similar ruling has been made in New York state by the appellate division, second department, by a majority vote, in Pardington vs. Abraham where the prevailing opinion said:

"The proof showed that similar doors, with springs of the same or greater strength, are in use at numerous like establishments in the borough of Manhattan. There does not appear to be anything about their construction or operation to make them dangerous to the customers of a department store, provided ordinary and reasonable care is exercised in their use. That it is possible to use them so as to injure others is demonstrated by this very accident; but carelessness in the use of any form of door may inflict injury upon one who happens to be sufficiently near it. No doubt the plaintiff has been the victim of a lamentable accident, but it is attributable, as it seems to me, not to any fault of the defendants, but rather to the hasty carelessness of a third person over whose movements and conduct they had no control."

INTRODUCE A NOVEL SPORT

Society Girls Sit in Chairs and Cast Their Hooks for Goldfish in Hotel Fountain.

A cane, a piece of thread and a bent pin, together with bread crumbs for bait, form the basis of a novel indoor sport introduced at an exclusive Pasadena hotel by two fun-loving society girls. The goldfish in the fountain which graces the big lobby of the hotel form the prey, although to date there have been no serious casualties among the funny beauties.

To sit comfortably in a big Morris chair in the lobby of a palatial hotel and at the same time enjoy all the delights dear to the followers of Isaac Walton is quite a novelty, declare the girls, who make a great sport of luring the fish to near-capture.

"Goldfish are fun to angle for," says Miss Marion Landers, who, with Miss Edna Walsh, introduced the odd sport. "We don't care to eat them, though, so any we catch we put back. It's great fun, don't you think?"

It certainly is, declare the prominent eastern guests, who were interested spectators of the novel fishing.

The Old and the New.

Inventions have a remarkable knack of repeating themselves. Among the more interesting patents for 1914 is a specification for a wheelless motor-car, propulsion being by means of skids, which are alternately lowered and raised. In the early days of locomotive history many inventors did not believe that sufficient adhesion was to be attained by a smooth wheel operating on a smooth rail, and weird and wonderful were the devices for overcoming this supposed defect. One ingenious engineer went so far as to design a contrivance in which jointed metal bars worked up and down on the rails after the fashion of a horse's legs, and there seems to be a certain affinity between this device and the motor car referred to above.

Wonders of the X-Ray.

The discovery of the X-ray by Professor Roentgen may be fairly considered one of the most wonderful achievements of the nineteenth century. It is today, as it was found by him in 1895, the same mysterious, unseen, but positive force, a species of electrical energy without a domicile and needing no conductor, a form of light passing through closed doors, invisible itself, and yet lighting up certain substances with a halo of glory and radically changing and decomposing others. Rivaling the sun in actinic power, and writing its autograph with an unseen hand, it is truly called the X, or unknown ray.

Russians' Coppers of Soup.

Prince Oldenburg, head of the Russian Red Cross service, has perfected an invention based on the thermos flask principle that has saved many lives on the battlefield. Each field hospital has two huge coppers of a joint capacity of 200 gallons, and a gargantuan vessel on the thermos principle, all mounted on wheels. The soup prepared in the coppers fills the thermos vessel, and then the coppers prepare another supply—and hot nourishment can be provided for 1,500 men the moment they are brought in from the field.

For Lovers of Birds.

Start at once to make some bird houses. Try scattering a few about the premises and enjoy the neighbors that will move into them. One of the most pleasing songsters that may easily be attracted to a home near the house, is the wren. A very small opening should be made in its house to prevent other birds from using it.

VALUE OF DOGS IN WARFARE

European Armies All Employ Them, and Testimony Is That They Give Good Service.

While there has been devoted a good deal of attention to the use of dogs in ambulance work, the sentry dog has figured little in dispatches. The sentry dog was urgently recommended a year or two ago by some of the higher French army officers, but they received no encouragement from the war office. Now the need is acutely felt and a corps is being trained as rapidly as possible. A dog of this kind will invariably give warning of the approach of an enemy long before the soldier sentry is aware of it. In one section of the northern front, where dogs have been used for the past month, no night attack of the Germans has been successful.

Not every dog will make a good enough sentry. They need careful selection and equally careful training. Many animals that are excellent as watch dogs or in guarding their master's property, prove worthless when removed suddenly to a new environment and stationed under a stranger.

The English at present have dogs working with about thirty battalions of their army. The Russians also use them rather extensively on sentry duty.

It is said that the Germans, whenever they enter new towns, make it a rule to collect and train all likely dogs, and to kill all others. Many of their signalmen go out accompanied by dog scouts, who give warning of the approach of the enemy.

IMPRESSIONS OF A HINDU

Learned Eastern Visitor Frankly Confesses That He Is Unable to Understand Americans.

Not seldom I feel among Americans as the Egyptian is said to have felt among the Greeks, that I am moving in a world of precocious and inexperienced children, bearing on my own shoulders the weight of the centuries. Yet it is not exactly that Americans strike me as young in spirit; rather they strike me as undeveloped. It is as though they had never faced life and asked themselves what it is; as though they were so occupied in running that it has never occurred to them to inquire where they started and whither they are going. They seem to be always doing and never experiencing. A dimension of life, one would say, is lacking, and they live in a plane instead of in a solid. That missing dimension I shall call religion. Not that Americans do not, for aught I know, "believe" as much as or more than Europeans; but they appear neither to believe nor to disbelieve religiously. . . . But even in Europe—and far more in India—there has always been, and still is, a minority who open windows to the stars; and through these windows, in passing, the plain man sometimes looks.—Rabindranath Tagore.

And That Spoiled It.

Douglas Fairbanks went to a social affair the other night and an admiring woman cornered him.

"Oh, Mr. Fairbanks," she said, "your acting is wonderful."

"Thank you," he replied.

"It's marvelous how you bring out the different emotions."

"I'm glad you appreciate my work."

"Yes, indeed, you are a great actor."

"You are indeed complimentary."

"And do you know," the woman rattled on, "I have a little five-year-old son at home who acts exactly like you do."

Child Research Work.

Miss Elizabeth Moore of St. Louis, who is a member of the children's bureau department of the government, has returned to St. Louis, Mo., to continue her investigations in regard to the women of the lumber camps and health of the children. Miss Julia LaFollette, head of the children's bureau, ordered Miss Moore to Indianapolis shortly after the holidays to assist in making preparations for a child welfare exhibition to be given in that city. Miss Moore was there ten days before returning to her regular work.

Studies American Methods.

A journey of 40,000 miles, at an expense of $2,000, for the purpose of studying methods of agriculture, will be the record of Professor S. McIntosh, commissioner of irrigation for South Australia, when he has returned to his home. He has passed two weeks in Chicago conferring with other irrigation leaders, and incidentally buying $100,000 worth of machinery.

DEFY COLD IN MANY WAYS

Men Compelled to Submit to Exposure Have Devised a Number of Ingenious Methods.

Rural mail carriers need never suffer from winter rigors or cold days generally if they follow the example of Homer Slider of Oldtown, Md. Slider makes his daily trip in a buggy mounted on runners in winter, with a complete little stove inside, a small pipe carrying the smoke and gas out at the rear. A bushel of coal carries him through one rural delivery trip nicely. The stove is kept going away into spring on stormy or chilly days.

But this contrivance has been paralleled in the past. According to a Dakota story a tenderfoot inventor sojourning in that region several years ago had a saddle especially made with an asbestos lining. In the pockets of the saddle he was accustomed to place hot bricks when starting on long horseback journeys. The cowboys laughed a great deal at him, asking what was the benefit of toasting at the calves and freezing at the throat. But there were those who would have tried it had the innovation been easily attached.

There is a story of a Minneapolis policeman who puttered a great deal with electricity in his days off, and who was said to have arranged an electric heater in the shape of a belt or strap along the tail of his coat. Scoffers declared that he had a way of throwing a piece of wire over an electric wire in the street and attaching it for a minute to his patent belt and patent transformers.

This he denied at a police trial, admitting, however, that he had been working on a battery heater that could be carried in the coat and produce a very comfortable amount of warmth. Part of his scheme was to construct a heater coat.

TRYING OUT ELECTRIC WAITER

Invention, It Is Believed, Will Do Away With the Employment of Man and Woman Servitors.

An electrical invention which, it is claimed, will do away with waiters in restaurants and hotels is being experimented with. Each table in the restaurant is to be fitted with a frame bearing the menu and a series of electrical "press buttons" corresponding with each item in the menu. The customer sits down before the already laid table, with a neat pile of glistening silver on one side, chooses the dishes which he prefers, and presses the corresponding buttons in turn.

In the kitchen of the restaurant the number of the table and the number of the course required are signaled on a screen to the chefs and their assistants, and in a few seconds a steaming hot dish appears in a little lift at the side of the diner's table.

The customer helps himself, presses a button, and the dish disappears as silently as it came, leaving at the side of the plate a little aluminum ticket indicating the sum to be paid.

Germans Hide for 50 Years.

A fatality which has strangely repeated itself after the passage of a half century in Raymond, Minn., Pawa Grove house was attributed by health authorities and attending physicians to diphtheria germs which had lurked in the walls during the long interval.

Fifty years ago diphtheria broke out in a family which previously owned the property and caused several deaths. Shortly before the present outbreaks Miller decided to have the walls of the house papered, and a heavy coating of whitewash was scraped away and this refuse thrown in a heap outside. Warm, damp weather followed and supposedly revived germs from the previous epidemic, which had been imprisoned under the whitewash.—York (Pa.) Dispatch to the Philadelphia Record.

Five Years of Boy Scouts.

The Boy Scout movement in America is only five years old. Yet so common is the sight of the scout uniform, so far-reaching is the scout service and so deep is its impression on the American imagination that it is hard not to think that Boy Scouts have always been.

There are times when all of us despair of the future of the race, so rampant seems evil, so triumphant and arrogant seem vice and selfishness. We know of nothing that can so swiftly restore faith for humanity as the sight of a half-dozen boys in scout khaki.—Toledo Blade.

Convincing Argument.

Timid Lady (about to buy a ticket for New York)—And is the boat that sails on Thursday perfectly safe?

Agent (gravely)—Madam, I can assure you that in all the time this ship has been in service, and that is not a number of years, not once has she gone to the bottom.

Timid Lady (reassured)—Oh, then, it must be all right. What cabins have you vacant?—London Tit-Bits.

French Wheat Crop Large.

French farmers raise more wheat than the Argentine, British India or Canada, all of them great world granaries. France grows about 315,000,000 bushels a year; enough with strict economy to supply herself without help from outside.
